

BANKRUPTCY INFORMATION SHEET MIDDLE DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA

BANKRUPTCY LAW IS A FEDERAL LAW. THIS SHEET PROVIDES YOU WITH GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT WHAT HAPPENS IN A BANKRUPTCY CASE. THE INFORMATION HERE IS NOT COMPLETE. YOU MAY NEED LEGAL ADVICE.

WHEN YOU FILE BANKRUPTCY

You can choose the kind of bankruptcy that best meets your needs (if you qualify):

Chapter 7 - A trustee is appointed to review your case and determine whether there is any non-exempt property of value that can be sold or turned into money to pay your creditors. You may be able to keep some or all of your property depending on the exemption law of the State where you live and applicable federal laws. Roughly 93% of chapter 7 cases in this district are “no asset” cases where no property is sold by the trustee and the case is typically closed within four months. In the 7% of cases that are “asset” cases, the trustee will administer non-exempt property to generate money to distribute to creditors. Chapter 7 debtors receive a bankruptcy discharge in over 95% of cases filed in this district, regardless of whether it is an “asset” or “no asset” case. The most common reasons for not receiving a discharge are (i) failure to disclose assets or other information, and (ii) dismissal of the case for failure to complete pre-petition credit counseling, file the required schedules, or meet other requirements. Eligibility for chapter 7 is subject to a “means test” and is not available to some individuals with above-median income that can afford to repay some of their debts from their disposable income.

Chapter 13 - You can usually keep your property, but you must earn wages or have some other source of regular income and you must agree to pay part of your income to your creditors. The court must approve your repayment plan and your budget. A trustee is appointed and will collect the payments from you, pay your creditors, and make sure you live up to the terms of your repayment plan. Most chapter 13 cases last for 3 to 5 years. In the Middle District of North Carolina, roughly 50% of chapter 13 debtors successfully complete their repayment plan and receive a discharge upon completion. The most common reasons for not receiving a discharge are (i) the failure to make payments, (ii) the failure to confirm a plan, and (iii) the failure to complete pre-petition credit counseling, file the required schedules, or meet other requirements. Most individuals are eligible for chapter 13.

Chapter 12 - Like chapter 13, but it is only for family farmers and family fishermen.

Chapter 11 - This is used mostly by businesses. In chapter 11, you may continue to operate your business, but your creditors and the court must approve a plan to repay your debts.

If you have already filed bankruptcy, you may be able to change your case to another chapter through a process called “conversion.”

Your bankruptcy may be reported on your credit record for as long as ten years. It can affect your ability to receive credit in the future.

WHAT IS A BANKRUPTCY DISCHARGE AND HOW DOES IT OPERATE?

One of the reasons people file bankruptcy is to get a “discharge.” A discharge is a court order which states that you do not owe most of your debts. Some debts cannot be discharged. For example, you cannot discharge debts for:

- most taxes;
- child support;
- alimony;
- some student loans;
- court fines and criminal restitution; and
- personal injury caused by driving drunk or under the influence of drugs.

The discharge only applies to debts that arose before the date you filed. Also, if the judge finds that you received money or property by fraud, that debt may not be discharged.

It is important to list all your property and debts in your bankruptcy schedules. If you do not list a debt, for example, it is possible the debt will not be discharged. The judge can also deny your discharge if you do something dishonest in connection with your bankruptcy case, such as destroy or hide property, falsify records, or lie, or if you disobey a court order.

You can only receive a chapter 7 discharge once every eight years. Other rules may apply if you previously received a discharge in a chapter 13 case. No one can make you pay a debt that has been discharged, but you can voluntarily pay any debt you wish to pay.

Some creditors hold a secured claim (for example, the bank that holds the mortgage on your house or the loan company that has a lien on your car). You do not have to pay a secured claim if the debt is discharged, but the creditor can still take the property if you do not pay.

WHAT IS A REAFFIRMATION AGREEMENT?

Even if a debt can be discharged, you may have special reasons why you want to promise to pay it. For example, you may want to work out a plan with the bank to keep your car. To promise to pay that debt, you must sign and file a reaffirmation agreement with the court. Reaffirmation agreements are under special rules and are voluntary. They are not required by bankruptcy law or by any other law.

Reaffirmation agreements:

- must be voluntary;
- must not place too heavy a burden on you or your family;
- must be in your best interest; and
- can be canceled anytime before the court issues your discharge or within 60 days after the agreement is filed with the court, whichever gives you the most time.

If you are an individual and you are not represented by an attorney, the court must hold a hearing to decide whether to approve the reaffirmation agreement. The agreement will not be legally binding until the court approves it.

If you reaffirm a debt and then fail to pay it, you owe the debt the same as though there was no bankruptcy. The debt will not be discharged and the creditor can take action to recover any property on which it has a lien or mortgage. The creditor can also take legal action to recover a judgment against you.
